After a decade singing in New York, Boston, Washington and Hong Kong, songstress Grace Chung launched in Sydney this year and has become one of the most popular acts ever at Bar Me.

By popular demand, Grace returns for another showcase of her uniquely eclectic repertoire of jazz, blues and country. For one night only, join us for a superb evening of Grace's haunting interpretations of the melodies of Billie Holiday, Tom Waits, Patsy Cline and many more.

"Grace .. embodies all the vamp and steamy fun of early swing clubs and blues/jazz singers like Billie Holiday ..." - Boston Globe

"Her voice is as supple as a rose petal, colored like a bird's wing ..." - Washington Times

"11 great tracks performed with Grace Chung's idyllic style, all done with panache, allure and a definite seductive quality." - Praise for Grace's album, Liking You Liking Me, John Gilbert, EJazzNews

"Her creativity is astounding - a song never sounds the same from night to night, yet always finds the emotional resonance that moves a listener. Her arrangements are astute and original. Her abilities to transform a song, bend a genre and evoke an emotion are unmatched." - Owlsong Productions

Grace will be joined by Nick Southcott (piano), Merve Sequiora (bass) and Steve Ley (drums).
